MYSTERIOUS!

A Stranger Drops Dead in Fulton County.

About two weeks ago a stranger came to the home of Sam Reed, four miles west of Delta, claiming to be Mrs. Reed's uncle and that he was in search of her; that her uncle in Colorado had recently died and left her considerable property. He also professed to be a minister, and Sunday morning Reed took him to the Dunker church, where he was introduced and urged to preach. He entered the rostrum and began a very eloquent sermon, when he was suddenly seized with a spasm and fell to the floor. Reed harbored him until Wednesday, when they started him on. He was refused assistance all day Thursday, until in the evening he came to a widow Green's north of Delta, and was given a night's lodging. In the evening he was again seized with pain and starting towards his bed fell across it, dead. He was a member of the G. A. R. and was born in 1831; these marks are on his arm. No money or papers were found on his clothes. He gave his name as Warner, and said he was looking up the Warners and heirs to an estate out west. His actions were peculiar and mysterious throughout.

Lightning Rod Sharks.

A couple of sleek swindlers have successfully worked several farmers in the vicinity of Fort Recovery this state, during the past few days, with the lightning rod game. They drove up to the residence of Garrett Homan and succeeded in getting him to sign a contract to have his barn rod. The price fixed in the contract was preposterously low, and the work was to be done a month from date. After the contract was filled out and signed, one of the lightning-rod sharks sealed it in an envelope, and after putting the address of the firm they claimed to represent on the envelope, turned it over to Homan, with instructions to keep it intact until they returned again. After they had left, one of Mr. Homan's family became suspicious and tore the envelope open. After the contract was examined by the family, it was replaced in the torn envelope. On the following day the sharks returned and asked for the envelope containing the contract. It was handed to them, and as soon as they saw that it had been opened they became very indignant and informed Homan that he had replaced the torn envelope. The penalty for tampering with United States mail matter. The law was quoted, and the guileless farmer was convinced that long terms in the penitentiary awaited himself and family. After frightened Homan enquired for their purpose, they allowed their indignation and anger to cool sufficiently to agree to compromise the matter with him on the payment of $280. Homan gave his note for that amount. The sharks who worked this game succeeded in bulldozing Dayton (Col.) a young farmer living near the same place out of $100 a few days ago. Golden signed a contract to have his barn rod for $12, and was then informed that $12 was the price for doing the rod, but that the cost of the material was not included in that amount. After finding out what the job would cost him, he paid the sharks $100 in cash to release him from the contract. Look out for sharks.

Grand Success.

Rev. Rankin, who has been holding protracted meeting at the Presbyterian Church for the past two weeks, left for Montpelier on Tuesday, where he holds services for a week. From there the reverend gentleman will go to Peru, Ind., where he has an appointment to preach in the Presbyterian church for six months.

Rev. Rankin has wrought a wonderful work in Napoleon during his short stay, the gathering being from 80 to 85, which is probably the largest number brought into the church fold at any one series of meetings in the history of Napoleon.

During his stay among us he has made many warm friends, not only with church members, but with the people generally; all wish him God speed in his good work, and hope that he may again visit Napoleon.

The meetings are being continued this week under the leadership of Rev. Donahay.

2t SHORMAKER BROS.

An Enjoyable Surprise.

Saturday last being Clerk D. C. Brown's thirty-ninth birthday, his estimable wife planned a pleasant surprise, which culminated in the evening with the usual enjoyable diversions.

Some twenty-five of Mr. Brown's most intimate friends were invited to spend the evening in honor of the occasion. His good wife went to church services on the eventful evening, D. C. and the children anticipating a quiet time until she returned, but as the hands of the clock traveled around to the hour of eight, the invited guests made a raid upon the Brown domicile, taking the head of the family wholly by surprise as he was nodding over the perusal of his evening paper. The guests flooded Mr. Brown with congratulations, which were interrupted by Judge Cuff, who, on behalf of the company, presented him with a fine upholstered chair, in a few pointed words. The response was in no wise lengthy, Mr. B. seemingly being too full for utterance—and he feelingly expressed his thanks.

The hours of the evening were pleasantly passed until about 11 o'clock, when all were invited to partake of refreshments, which invitation it is useless to say was heartily responded to, and it was near midnight before the "boys" let up "sampling" the good things placed before them.

The evening passed pleasantly, and was all in all one of the most enjoyable and genuine surprise parties that has taken place in the city for some time—probably the only regret being the absence of the good wives and best girls.
